Randi Schillinger's practice emphasizes both complex real estate and financial transactions and all aspects of transactional and regulatory environmental compliance issues.

She has broad experience in construction, purchase money and leasehold financings and acquisitions, sales and leasing of all types of real property. She routinely represents lending institutions in connection with commercial, construction, acquisition and refinancing transactions, including those related to shopping centers, retail establishments, industrial complexes and apartment buildings.

Randi provides counsel to the business community with respect to environmental due diligence, permitting and compliance matters. She also handles environmental matters relating to the sale, transfer, closure and financing of New Jersey businesses and advises clients on an ongoing basis on permitting and compliance obligations under Federal and State environmental laws.
