

Catherine Soliman and Cynthia Vera Elected as Barristers of the John C. Lifland American Inn of Court

August 18, 2021

Saiber associates Catherine Soliman and Cynthia Vera have been elected as Barristers of the John C. Lifland American Inn of Court, an association dedicated to fostering and developing the practice of intellectual property law and federal litigation in New Jersey. Catherine and Cynthia recently completed their two-year cycle as Students of the Inn, where they worked through a variety of professional development exercises, including presentation of oral arguments.

The Lifland Inn is one chapter of the American Inns of Court, an association of Inns around the country that are comprised of lawyers, judges, and other legal professionals from all levels and backgrounds who share a passion for professional excellence. Membership of an Inn of Court ranges from the Pupil level, comprised of law students, to Masters of the Bench, a category reserved for experienced lawyers as well as Judges and law professors.

Catherine Soliman focuses her practice on complex commercial litigation, with an emphasis on employment litigation and intellectual property law. She represents her clients in state and federal court proceedings, and on appeals before state and federal appellate courts. Catherine received her B.A. from Seton Hall University (summa cum laude) in 2015 and her J.D. from Seton Hall University School of Law (cum laude) in 2018.

Cynthia M. Vera is an associate in the Firm's business litigation practice group. Cynthia focuses her practice on complex commercial litigation and employment litigation, appearing before New York and New Jersey state courts at both the trial and appellate levels. Cynthia received her B.A. from Rutgers University (cum laude) in 2012 and her J.D. from Seton Hall University School of Law in 2018.
