

Mergers & Acquisitions

Saiber has a long-standing reputation for guiding clients through complex M&A transactions with precision, insight and efficiency. We regularly advise public and private businesses on all aspects of M&A transactions, including stock and asset acquisitions, mergers, joint ventures, and divestitures. Our experience representing both buyers and sellers allows us to anticipate challenges and structure deals that align with our clients' strategic goals and needs.

On the sell-side, we have extensive experience working with owner-operators as well as second- and third-generation business owners navigating the sale of a family-owned enterprise. We understand the unique considerations that come with these transactions, from succession planning and valuation concerns to ensuring a smooth transition for employees and customers.

On the buy-side, we represent public and private companies pursuing strategic acquisitions, including overseas companies seeking to acquire U.S.-based businesses. We help international clients navigate the complexities of cross-border transactions, including regulatory approvals, due diligence, and cultural and operational integration.

We serve businesses across a diverse range of industries, including e-commerce, technology, insurance, gaming, manufacturing, consumer products and apparel, and business services. With deep experience in the middle-market, we frequently handle transactions ranging from a few million to over $100 million.

Our team takes a comprehensive approach to M&A, advising on every phase of a transaction—from initial structuring to due diligence, negotiation, and closing. We collaborate closely with our clients and their advisors, leveraging the knowledge of our multidisciplinary team, which includes professionals from our intellectual property, employment, real estate, environmental, gaming, and estate planning practice groups.

Clients trust us for our strategic insights, efficiency, and commitment to delivering value. We take a lean, results-driven approach to staffing matters, ensuring cost-effectiveness without compromising quality. Our dedication to client service has earned us recognition in U.S. News's Best Law Firms rankings for Corporate Law.
